FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Epilepsy Foundation of NENY Announces Grand Opening of Satellite Office in the Upper Hudson Valley

The Epilepsy Foundation of Northeastern New York announced today, that their new Upper Hudson Valley Satellite Office is now open. The facility located at 60 Park Lane in Highland will service a five county area in the region including Dutchess, Ulster, Sullivan, Columbia and Greene counties. Official ribbon-cutting ceremony of the new office will take place on Friday, March 20th at 2:00 p.m. The new office is located just one mile off Exit 18 of the NYS Thruway. The mailing address is 60 Park Lane, Suite 4, Highland, NY 12528.

“Serving the Capital Region for over twenty-five years, we felt there was a need to open an office in the Upper Hudson Valley area”, said Executive Director Jeannine Garab. “This office will bring us closer to people with epilepsy who live in this community and give us a platform from which to expand our services and increase the efficiency of delivering those services to the people who need them the most.”

The new location will offer a wide range of services which are tailored to children, adults and families who have been touched by this disorder. Programs include school education and professional in-service training as well as advocacy and service coordination. For more information on this new office and services provided, please call (845) 883-6320.

The Epilepsy Foundation of Northeastern New York, Inc. is a non-profit organization which offers an array of services to people with epilepsy, their families and the community at large in 22 counties in northeastern New York, including the Capital Region, the North Country, and the Upper Hudson Valley.
